

Hillary Varvel
Chief Product Officer and Compliance Expert
Controlytics

Hillary Varvel is the Chief Product Officer at Controlytics, a cutting-edge company leveraging AI to help compliance experts diagnose and build effective compliance management systems (CMS) with unprecedented speed and cost-efficiency. With over a decade of experience in diverse compliance and project management roles, Hillary is an industry veteran. This experience includes extensive work in disputes management for major financial players, including debt buyers, collection agencies, and banks, giving them a deep, practical understanding of high-stakes regulatory challenges.